Colonel Archie Lewis
Maxwell Air Force Base
Box 109
Maxwell, Alabama

Dear Arch:

I am sorry that I missed seeing you when you were in Washington recently.

With regard to the address which the Director made at the Army War College last June, I find that he made it extemporaneously from notes rather than from a written paper. I have looked at a copy of his notes, and while they do give a good outline of the topics he covered many of them are in his own personal handwriting and I do not feel that I could take the liberty of passing them on to anyone else without his permission which I assume, under the circumstances, you would not want me to request.

Mr. Dulles is in great demand by the Service schools and many others for speaking engagements, and if you are seriously considering asking him to come to the Air War College I would urge you to forward your request as soon as possible.

We miss you here and hope that we shall have the opportunity of seeing you when you pass through Washington next.

Sincerely,

/s/

L. K. White
Deputy Director
